The international spotlight will be on Beijing this summer as China hosts the biggest party of the year: the 2008 summer Olympic games. The event has captured the world's attention, with talk of boycott, protests and interest in China's growing international stature.

Yet in the midst of all the hype and all the protests, what is really happening in China?

Come and see what God is doing in China. Find out more about life in China from experts who have lived and worked there. Fuel your prayers through current events. Learn what is happening beyond the Olympics ... Beyond Beijing 2008.
